

FLCCC Observational Cancer Study: Participating Providers

* For all Providers: Per study criteria guidelines -- all cancer types in adults (18+)

* Leading Edge Clinic only: Per study criteria guidelines -- all cancer types in adults & children

* Each patient is responsible for the medical advice and treatment therapies provided by participating clinics.

* Costs vary based on the clinic and the patient's medical history.

* Clinic-based therapies are typically more expensive than telemedicine.

Health and Healing

Kathleen T. Ruddy, MD

Dr. Ruddy is a retired cancer surgeon trained at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center. During her 28 years in practice, she took care of more than 10,000 patients in the United States and abroad. She has a Masters degree in International Healthcare Leadership from McGill University. She served on the Leadership Council of the Harvard School of Public Health and was deeply involved in mobilizing international support for West Africa during the outbreak of Ebola in 2014. Dr. Ruddy authored the first book about the human breast cancer virus, The End of Breast Cancer: A Virus and the Hope for a Vaccine. She is now a scientific investigator in an observational study whose objective is to answer the question, "Do repurposed, FDA-approved drugs like ivermectin improve the survival of patients with cancer?"

The James Clinic

Mollie James, DO, MPH, FACOS FACS, IFMCP

Dr. James is board certified in general surgery and critical care medicine. She trained at Mercy Medical Center-Des Moines and the University of Minnesota. After practicing for five years, she realized she needed additional tools to help her patients. Functional medicine was the answer. She combined functional medicine into her surgery practice for patients with GI issues presenting for endoscopy and it had immediate benefit to patients. The James Clinic was launched to fulfill the unmet needs of patients, which became even more obvious during 2020. Providing convenient, accessible care and a direct physician-patient relationship without conflicts of interest.
